Riverview Health announces new chief operating officer and chief information officer

Noblesville—Riverview Health announced that Dave Hyatt has been appointed as the new chief operating officer (COO) and Michael Mover as the new chief information officer (CIO) of Riverview Health.

Hyatt brings more than 15 years of healthcare experience working in several different executive roles. Prior to Riverview Health, he was president at Blackford Hospital and vice president of System Rural Strategy of IU Health. In his new role with Riverview Health, he provides leadership for support areas including environmental services, food services, facilities, security and more. Hyatt earned a Bachelor of Science in Public Health from Indiana University–Bloomington and a Master of Health Administration from Indiana University–Indianapolis. He is also a certified Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives.

Mover served as the CIO at Riverview Health from 2004-2012 and is once again returning to Indiana from Tennessee after 10 years to rejoin the leadership team as the new CIO. For the past few years, Mover has been the CIO at Corizon Health in Brentwood, TN. Prior to that, he was the CIO and senior vice president of Information Systems with Saint Thomas Health in Nashville, TN. Mover grew up in the Indianapolis area and still has family living here. He earned a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from Indiana Institute of Technology and an MBA with a health care concentration from Indiana Wesleyan.

“We’re pleased to welcome both Dave and Michael onto the leadership team,” said Seth Warren, CEO and president of Riverview Health. “They both bring a lot of healthcare experience and knowledge that will be essential in ensuring we’re keeping up with the ever-changing needs of our patients and making high-quality care a priority.”

About Riverview Health
